

Employer of Farmworkers: Coronavirus Video Guide

The Extension Farmworker Health and Safety Program is pleased to present a set of three introductory videos on YouTube focusing on the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) and farmworkers. They were developed as a resource for farmers, farm labor contractors, and farmworkers to learn about the novel coronavirus and to promote preventative behavior within the farming community.

The videos are in Spanish and use very simple and direct language to help understand the coronavirus pandemic. Each video addresses one specific topic of the coronavirus:

- Part 1 of 3 - ¿Qué es el coronavirus y los síntomas? / What is coronavirus and it's symptoms?
- Part 2 of 3 - ¿Cómo se transmite el coronavirus? / How does coronavirus spread?
- Part 3 of 3 - Trabajadores del campo y el coronavirus / Farmworkers and COVID-19

We strongly recommend watching the three videos consecutively as their content builds and complements each other. In addition, we recommend that you consider the following options when watching the video:

1. Promote each farmworker to watch the video on their personal smartphone and provide discussion and Q&A time to be sure the message was understood.
2. Set up a space at the farm for the workers to watch the videos in small groups (maintaining social distance regulations) and promote discussion and Q&A time to be sure the message was understood.
3. The Extension farmworkers program staff is available to help facilitate virtual small groups (keeping social distance regulations) discussion and Q&A time.

Please contact Roberto Rosales, program educator for any questions.

Email- rmrosale@ncsu.edu Cell- 252-883-5721